Meet Haley

I'm a registered dietitian who specializes in plant-based nutrition. I'm passionate about helping people transition to a plant-based diet and incorporate more healthy meals into their lives. With more than a decade of nutrition experience, I have helped many people improve their health through food and lifestyle. I own an insurance based private practice in Las Vegas, NV and also offer corporate wellness programs.

My goal is to share the message that you can eat healthy and enjoy plant-based food while improving your quality of life and preventing disease. I work with the media often and partner with brands who love to create fun and educational content.

I am also a professional Kendama player. Kendama is a popular Japanese skill toy and it has allowed me to work with many brands on fun projects and design three of my own signature pro models.
